This is a detailed architectural site plan of the historical center of Guardiagrele, Chieti. The drawing is a black and white line plan showing the layout of buildings, streets, and public spaces. The buildings are represented by simple rectangular outlines, some with internal divisions indicating room layouts. The streets are shown as lines connecting the buildings, with some wider areas indicating squares or parks. The plan is set against a background of topographical contour lines, which show the elevation of the terrain. The overall shape of the town is irregular, following the contours of the land. The drawing is a technical representation of the urban environment, used for planning and development purposes.
